Dear Bedell:

[REDACTED]

25X1

While he is certain of employment here in his present capacity as FSS-1 at a salary of $9,950, he is most anxious to work for the Psychological Strategy Board, because he believes it to be the spearhead of our world-wide counter-offensive of ideas against sovietism, communism, atheism and the mass man. He feels that with seven years' experience in the field and from a continuing study of communism during this time, he can bring something useful to the home laboratory of ideas and action.

I have known [REDACTED] for more than three years and regard him as one of the most brilliant, scholarly, imaginative, energetic and resourceful men I have ever met with a world of background, particularly suited for the fields of counter-propaganda.

He apparently is under consideration by [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]. If this recommendation to you of my high regard for his character and ability leads to a favorable decision, I feel that you will gain a rare addition to the organization.

The years have passed since we last met after the war. I have admired the way you have stood up under the continuing pressure that has given you so little relief in your expanding service to our country.

With my best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

/s/ Charlie
